

Accounts

ChantLab can be used without an account: anyone can browse the public chant list, filter, and run an alignment. An account is required to keep your own datasets, saved alignments, and settings.

Open <https://quest.ms.mff.cuni.cz/chantlab/>. While logged out, the top bar shows Chant list, Dashboard, About, plus Login and Register.

Tabs that appear after login

Once you are signed in, your username is shown in the top bar and Logout replaces Login/Register. Three extra tabs appear:

Tab	What it is for
Manage data	Your datasets: delete them, or upload a CSV
Manage alignments	Open or delete alignments you saved
Settings	Alignment, network, dashboard, and phylogeny options

The extra tabs are now in the top bar, together with your username and Logout.

Chant list also gains Create Dataset and Add to dataset under the table.

Settings

Click Settings in the top bar.

Changes are stored for your account. Useful items:

- Alignment settings — how the distance matrix is computed, and whether alignment snapshots download as PNG (default), JPEG, or PDF
- Network graph settings — whether only closest-neighbour edges are drawn
- Phylogeny settings — MrBayes - Number of Generations (minimum 1000). Larger values take longer. 4000 is enough for a first try, but it might be too little for more thorough, precise experiments. At this stage, ChantLab's phylogenetic analysis is primarily intended for experimental use.

Log out

Click Logout in the top bar. The extra tabs disappear and the public chant list remains available.
